What’s the Career Demand?

The medical assistant profession is projected to be among the fastest-growing occupations between 2006 and 2016, with an estimated 35-percent increase in employment. Job opportunities should be excellent, especially for those with formal training. Employment growth will be driven by the expansion of the health care industry, due to advances in medical technology and the aging of the population. An increase in the number of clinics and health care facilities will also create a demand for a large number of support personnel, particularly for flexible medical assistants who can handle both clinical and administrative duties.
